On this walking tour, you'll stroll along Oslo's new harbour promenade, which takes you through different parts of the city, both new and old, each with its own characteristics and unique experiences.

You'll see some of Oslo's most spectacular architectural sights, such as the Oslo Opera House, and the newly developed district, Tjuvholmen, which features buildings drawn by some 20 different renowned architects.

You'll also discover some of the city's historic landmarks, one of them being the medieval castle, Akershus Fortress, which was built in the late 1290's by King Haakon V to protect the city.

And of course, no tour of Oslo would be complete without a visit to the City Hall, where the Nobel Peace Prize ceremonies are conducted each year.

Bergen was founded in 1070 A.D. During the 12th and 13th centuries, when the Kingdom of Norway was at the peak of its power, Bergen was the capital of Norway. The Norwegian kings resided here, and many historical events took place in this busy port, which in those days had no fewer than 27 churches and abbeys. Bergen owed wealth and prominence to the fish export trade - mainly dried fish which was one of the most important products of the Middle Ages.
